

DR. MARY A.M. (STRONG) ROGERS

GRADUATED FROM EDGAR HIGH SCHOOL IN 1971

B.A. ZOOLOGY, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN,
MADISON IN 1975
M.S. COMMUNITY HEALTH EDUCATION, UNIVERSITY
OF OREGON, 1981 AND
Ph.D. EPIDEMIOLOGY, UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON,
SEATTLE IN 1989

Mary Strong Rogers was the 1971 Valedictorian at Edgar High School. She is now an Assistant Professor of Epidemiology at the State University of New York Health Science Center in Syracuse. She has a strong commitment to public health and disease prevention through her teaching and research efforts. Her work in health promotion and education has influenced many individuals, including medical students, disabled children, elderly with cancer and Alzheimer's disease, and Swazis in Africa.

Dr. Rogers has numerous publications and is currently involved in five research activities.

Dr. Rogers, daughter of Ken & Dee Strong, is married to Dr. Scott Rogers and they have two children.