

GERLYN (HEIL) BRASIC

GRADUATED FROM EDGAR HIGH SCHOOL IN 1989

VITERBO UNIVERSITY, LACROSSE-BACHELOR OF SCIENCE-BIOLOGY
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN MEDICAL SCHOOL-MADISON-
MEDICAL DOCTOR

Dr. Brasic's residency was done at Gundersen Lutheran Medical Center in LaCrosse. She is currently employed in LaCrosse, Wisconsin as an internal medicine physician. Prior to her current position, she was employed at Cambridge Medical Center, Cambridge, Minnesota. Dr. Brasic cared for patients in a traditional clinic-based internal medicine practice and as one of three hospitalists for the 86 bed hospital.

As a student at UW Medical School in Human Oncology, Dr. Brasic served as a research specialist and conducted genetic mapping and linkage Studies of breast cancer genes in the rat genome.

At the Medical College of Wisconsin from 1994-95, Dr. Brasic was a research technologist and studies the localization and function of agrin During synapse formation in the developing spinal cord and retinotectal pathway of the chick embryo.

While in college she served as a certified nursing assistant and worked as a summer intern and science and engineering research semester intern at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in Berkeley, California and was a Summer Fellow at the Marshfield Medical research foundation.

Dr. Brasic has numerous publications to her credit.

Her volunteer experience includes working at health missions, free clinics, and homeless shelters. She also served in the US Peace Corps in Gabon, Africa. During her year there, she taught middle and high school chemistry and physics in French at the Lysee d/Etat de Tchibanga.

Dr. Gerlyn Heil is the daughter of Gerald and Margie Heil, Edgar. She married Matt Brasic and they reside in Bangor, Wisconsin. Gerlyn and Matt have one daughter, Danika.